Dear Colleagues,

2014 CHRISTMAS MEETING OF THE HIGH POWER LASER USER COMMUNITY

You are cordially invited to participate in the 2014 Christmas Meeting of the High Power Laser User Community. As in previous years this will take place in Abingdon, starting at mid-day on Monday 15th December. The meeting aims to bring together both experimental researchers along with those involved in theory and simulation, and, in particular, to provide a venue for PhD students and young post-doctoral researchers to present their work.

I encourage you to pass on this email to any members of your group or institution who may benefit from attending. I will strive to accommodate requests for oral presentations as much as possible, but priority will be given to PhD students and young researchers. Three established members of the community have kindly accepted invitations to present review talks on their respective areas. The deadline for registration is the 17th October.

Lunch and dinner will be provided in Cosener's House. The oral presentations will take place in the nearby Guildhall, and accommodation has been arranged in Cosener's House and nearby hotels. The seminar rooms of Cosener's House will host the poster sessions. As usual there will be a student poster prize competition.

Any special dietary or other requirements that you have can be specified in the on-line registration process. If you need to contact me directly to discuss any related matter then please don't hesitate to do so. We look forward to seeing you in December.

Yours sincerely,

Alex Robinson
